WORLD ATHLETICS INDOOR CHAMPIONSHIPS

This brochure was made by Czech Athletic Federation's Communications Department.

www.atletika.cz

DEAR FRIENDS OF ATHLETICS

For the first time, Toruń is hosting the World Athletics Indoor Championships. However, the local arena has already welcomed European Indoor Championships five years ago. Also, after Sopot twelve years ago, this is the second time that Poland has hosted the global highlight of this part of the season. Our northern neighbours have a lot of other organizing experience, so I have no doubt that we can look forward to a well-prepared athletics spectacle in front of packed stands.

I am very happy that our team led by experienced Amálie Švábíková and Jan Štefela also includes a number of promising young athletes and both relay teams. As always, I wish them all the best in achieving their qualifying performances, because that means they will be successful.

I am looking forward to the great atmosphere in the Toruń arena, which will spur all the athletes on to excellent performances.

Libor Varhaník

DID YOU KNOW?

David started doing gymnastics when he was a little boy and went on to win five medals at the national championships. He then took a break from competitive sports. Instead, he rode a scooter, a bike and a skateboard. However, after two years, he started to miss competing. Wanting to experience again the feeling of being better than others at something, he found his way to athletics. He began training with his father. Since winning the national youth championship, athletics has truly started to fulfil him, and he now devotes almost everything to it. He earned a bachelor's degree from the Faculty of Physical Education and Sport at Charles University.

As a child, Šimon played tennis and participated in firefighting sports. When he started athletics in Opava at the age of eleven, he was convinced that he would only run the 100-metre sprint and said that he would rather quit than run the 400 metres. Ultimately, however, it became his main event. Before he moved to Prague, he did not set himself big goals in athletics, such as competing in the Olympics. However, that later changed.

Everyone calls her Lu. She was born in the Czech Republic, but her father was born in Angola and her mother in Russia. Thanks to this background, she understands some Portuguese and speaks Russian, as that is the language used at home. She is also learning English and French. She does not need much training, however, she loves competitions and enjoys excelling. Earlier in her career, she ran the 800 metres and short sprints. During the pandemic, she and her first coach, Šárka Chládková, tried “something in between” — the 300 metres — and her time was promising. She ran her first 400 metres at the age of fourteen, improving by at least three seconds in two consecutive seasons and by more than a second last year. Her current coach is Laurent Meuwly.

DID YOU KNOW?

During her childhood, Kateřina tried many sports, spending the most time playing handball. It was handball that eventually led her to athletics and the javelin throw, helping her to get into a sports-focused high school. After a shoulder injury, she switched to sprinting. After winning her first junior Czech Republic title, she took a year off, only to realise how much she missed athletics, and returned to training. She does not have a single role model, but draws inspiration from various athletes. In her personal life, her mother is her biggest inspiration. She most enjoys spending her free time with her family and her dog.

Amálie tried several sports, including gymnastics and volleyball, but she was particularly competitive at snowboarding. Until 2015, she combined snowboarding with pole vault, representing both sports at the Winter and Summer EYOF that year. She started her athletics career in her hometown of Kadaň and later joined the Slavia Praha club, training with Marek Čepelák's group. She then moved to USK Praha, where she trained under Pavel Beran. Later she cooperated with Olympian Štěpán Janáček and now trains with former European champion Jiřina Kudličková. Although she does not have a specific idol, she admires the jumping style of American pole vaulters Jenn Suhr and Sandi Morris. In her spare time, she enjoys spending time with her friends and parents.
